List of entries accepted to the online wider festival only:

NOTE; The festival organisers reserve the right to make changes at short notice

We received a very large number of strong entries this year. There simply isn't time to listen to them all across the week. So, we have introduced a new approach for a selected number of submissions. Although we will not be able to programme them during the jury listening sessions live, we are expanding the online element of the festival – and they will be available to listen to online outside the listening sessions. These pieces will be eligible for the Audience Award and will be available to listeners around the world for the duration of the festival and the subsequent audience award voting period.

We think this will be a great way to extend the scope of the festival and will give the listening world a wider range of exciting audio drama to hear and vote for through the festival.
